Can't Beat 'Em.
The Lancaster foot ball team cannot be beaten. They lined up against Central University Thursday and walloped them to the tune of 11 to 0. The Lancaster boys have played six games this season, winning them all.

Court Day Dinner.
The ladies of the Baptist church will serve an elegant dinner in the Gaines store room next county court day. For the small sum of a quarter they will give you a good, square meal. This money goes toward paying for the parsonage. Help 'em along. tf

George Says Its Casey's.
Asked regarding his candidacy for re-election to the state senate, Hon. George T. Farris, of this city, said he would undoubtedly be in the race, provided Casey county did not want the nomination. He claim its Casey's turn, and if a candidate from there announces, he will under no circumstances oppose him.

All weekly payments to the Lancaster Building and Loan Association must be made by Saturday or Saturday night of each week, or a fine of five cents per share. We cannot receive payments on Monday for the Saturday previous without charging the penalty. Respectfully, J. C. Hemphill, Secy.

Improvements.
The unfinished work in the Opera House is being rapidly completed and before another attraction arrives everything will be finished, so that the management will be able to heat it and make it perfectly comfortable. Visitors display good judgement when they say that it is the most beautiful Opera House in the country.

We are opening up our Xmas goods as fast as they arrive, large lines and low prices for cash. Thompson the Jeweler.

Merchants Jubilee.
Great preparations are being made for the Business Men's Jubilee to be held at the Opera House next Friday, the 14th. Miss Dove B. Harris is in charge of the entertainment. Each business man will be represented by some young lady. This entertainment has been given in other towns and was greatly enjoyed. Reserved seats are on sale at McRoberts' Drug Store.

Circuit Court.
At our last report, the case of C. B. Rouse & Co., of New York, against C. T. Wallace & Co., was on trial. This case took up several days and resulted in a verdict for plaintiff for $1,591. The case of W. A. Arnold against the City of Lancaster was then called and is in progress as we go to press. Hon. R. C. Warren is acting a special judge in this case. Arnold claims credit on delinquent taxes while he was marshal.

Wool.
Wool fabrics furnished the proper clothing for man, on account of comfort, quality, long wear, appearance and durability. Come and select such a suit at $10. to $20.00. Fourteen dollars will give you an elegant, all wool, tailor made suit. Examine goods and compare quality and prices. Leave your order before bad weather comes on us. Fit, wear, prices and quality guaranteed. W. D. Hughes, Agt.

Bad Coal.
The L. & N. railroad has gotten hold of a lot of bad coal, and is suffering much annoyance therefrom. The engines will not burn it, and its almost impossible to keep one in steam (or as engineers say, "keep her tail up.") Trains frequently have to stop while the enginemen put on the blowers and swear to raise more steam. This is no fault of the company. They were simply "picked up" in buying it.

McKinney Leads.
We are glad to see that our old railroad friend, James I. McKinney was given the banner for having the best division on the entire L. & N. system. He is located at Montgomery, Ala., and is superintendent of that division. He's a natural-born railroad man and as clever a man as one can find in a year's hunt. He is a son of the late Capt. George H. McKinney and married the handsome Miss Katie Slaughter, whose writings over the nom de plume "Katydidd" have been widely read and greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Mary F. Logan.
After a lingering illness, Mrs. Mary F. Logan, wife of Timothy Logan, died at the family residence, in this county, Friday night. Funeral services were held Saturday, after which the remains were interred in the family burying ground. Mrs. Logan was a consistent member of the Baptist church, and a woman beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was in her sixty-seventh year. Death was the result of paralysis. She was the step-mother of Messrs. John M. and Hugh T. Logan, two leading merchants of this city.

To The Ladies.
Although the season is growing late we still have in stock elegant lines of dress goods, shoes, underwear, blankets, comforts, and in fact everything to be found in an up-to-date store. We are satisfied you will agree with us that these goods are as good as can be bought in the cities, and that our prices are marvelously low. It is our rule to sell out everything, and carry no goods over, so a call at our store will reveal many rare bargains such as you little expect to find outside the cities. We prove all our assertions, and advertise nothing that we do not carry out to the letter. J. Joseph.

Capt. Lillard for Senator.
Capt. E. W. Lillard, of Danville, has shied his castor into the State senatorial ring. Capt. Lillard has been a hard worker for his party, always ready and willing to give his time or delve into his jeans to help the cause of democracy. It would be hard to find one better posted on matters of the day, and if the democracy gives him the honor, he will never have cause to regret it. He says its Boyle county's turn for the nomination, adding "Casey having furnished two nominees, Boyle, Lincoln and Garrard since 1881, and Lincoln and Garrard since Boyle had one."

Chances For Lancaster Man.
The chances of Hon. John W. Yerkes being made commissioner of internal revenue are said to be exceedingly rosy. In case he is appointed, the prospects for our townsman, Gen. D. R. Collier, being made collector of this district are very good. No one stands better with the administration than does Gen. Collier, and his appointment would please all members of the party. Of course nothing has been said or done in the collector's matter, but if Gen. Collier should get the place and move the office to Lancaster, a wet nurse would have to be employed for Danville.

Closing Out At C. St.
As will be seen from their immense ad on next page, the firm of Logan & Robinson is to be changed, and they will sell out at cost for spot cash. There is not a finer or better selected stock of goods in Central Kentucky than is carried by this firm. They are both splendid business men, and know what to buy and how to buy it. If you want bargains, this is your opportunity. Everybody is sorry this firm is to dissolve, as they are the kind of business men that help a town. They are pushing, up-to-date, hustlers, and always in the lead for improvements and the best interest of the town.

Hit's Nail on the Head.
The Stanford Journal tells this one on the best judge and cleverest gentleman who ever warmed a wool sack: Wm. Burton asked Judge Sausley to excuse him from service in a certain case pending between two of his warm friends. The Judge said to him: "Suppose in every case coming up before me as a court, between my friends, I should want to be excused or decline to act and call for the election of a special judge?" "Well," said Burton, "the case is different, your honor; they can pick up such a juror as I am on the street any time, but they can't find such a judge as you are anywhere." He was excused.

Considering It.
Gov. Bradley received a letter from Supt. Evans, of the L. & N., saying the management was looking into the request for a new depot. If the matter was left to either Mr. Evans or Mr. Hood, we would get the station, but there is a lot of red tape to be gone through with and it may be a month before the matter is settled. Gov. Bradley is taking much interest in the matter and doing all in his power to help get the depot. By the way, the Governor has put his shoulder to the wheel in the Southern extension matter, and his timely advice and encouragement has greatly enthused the little handful of fellows who are still trying to get the road.

281 From 1 to 5.00.
That might be a riddle or an invitation to a church fair, but it isn't. It's a concise way of calling public attention to the fact that The Royal Tailors, of Chicago, have authorized us to reduce prices on 281 Fall and Winter Patterns from the way from $1 to $5 per suit—and we've done it! Our prices on this high grade tailoring were very low before, but now they afford absolutely the best investment a man ever made in the way of dress. Come and see these patterns; we have them all; costs you nothing to look and but little to buy—and our guarantee is your safety-valve.

[And here's a friendly tip: They won't last always.] J. C. Hemphill.

A Fine Contest.
One of the most enjoyable contests ever given in Lancaster was the one at the Garrard Opera House Thursday evening. As stated in last issue, the speakers were representatives of the county schools, all home people, which made the evening much more enjoyable. The Paint Lick band, which, by the way, is a splendid organization, delighted the audience with music between the numbers. Miss Elisa Lusk, the handsome and accomplished Superintendent of Public Schools, presided. The Record regrets exceedingly that lack of space prevents a detailed notice of the contest, but our friends, the advertisers, compel a belling down of all news items this week. The first prize, a gold medal, was awarded to Miss Margaret Ohearn, representing Walkers School House. The second prize, a silver medal, was awarded to Miss Annie Burk, of Point Leavell.

Dr. W. N. Bush Dead.
After a lingering illness, Dr. W. N. Bush died at his family residence, on Richmond street in the city, Thursday afternoon. He was a practicing physician in Lancaster for a great many years, and was one of the most successful practitioners, his judgement always being sought and relied upon in serious cases. Dr. Bush served in the Confederate army and was in his sixtieth year. He married Miss Cec'e Salter, and four children blessed their union—Thos. C., Wade H., Misses Bessie and Gena, who with Mrs. Bush survive him. Funeral services were held in the Baptist church Friday afternoon conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Woolford, and the remains interred in the Lancaster Cemetery. The deceased was a man of extraordinary intellect and kept well up in his profession. We never knew a more kind-hearted or more sympathetic man than was he, nor have we ever seen a more attentive physician to his patients. He was ready at all hours and at any time to go to the relief of any sufferer, even when he knew he would not receive one cent in pay for the trip. In his death the community loses a good and useful citizen, and his family a devoted and loving husband and father.

Change at Crab Orchard Springs.
Mr. Gus Hofmann, for the past nine years manager of Crab Orchard Springs, has severed his connection with the resort and will soon return to Indianapolis to engage in a more lucrative business. During his stay at Crab Orchard, Mr. Hofmann has made many friends, who wish him well in his new venture. He had much to contend with when he took charge of the Springs, the principal one being the foolish idea people had that Keeley patients would make it unpleasant for guests. In nearly every case, the patients proved to be as good, if not a blanked sight better than the would-be fastidious guests. Gus Hofmann is a clever, big-hearted gentleman, and no one wishes him more success than does the CENTRAL RECORD. Dr. E. G. Dick, we are glad to note, will remain in charge of the Keeley Institute. The Springs will be managed by Mr. J. B. Willis, of Richmond, who is an experienced hotel man.

LETTER FROM PHILIPPINES.
SANTA CRUZ, Luzon, P. I., October 20th, 1900.

EDITOR RECORD:—I am a Garrard county boy and a reader of THE RECORD, which often finds its way over ten thousand miles of land and sea to the south firing line in southern Luzon where I am serving, as member of the 37th Infantry U. S. V's. There being quite a number of boys here from the vicinity of Lancaster and Stanford, I thought perhaps an account of the trip over here, and of Uncle Sam's new possessions in the far east might be worthy of the space in your paper, and be of interest, at least to those who have sons and brothers braving the dangers of war and disease in the Philippines. I enlisted at Lancaster, Aug. 29th, 1899, and left immediately for Columbus, Ohio, where I discarded civilian clothes and donned the blue, leaving Sept. 8th, for San Francisco, arriving there on the 13th, after an interesting trip through the snow clad Rockies, across the plains to Salt Lake, over the arid American Desert, and Sierra Nevada to the broad wheat fields and fruit orchards of California. Was camped at Presidio while on the coast, and with other recruits was kept busy at drill and target practice to prepare us for immediate service on the lines where we were to be sent by earliest transportation.

On the evening of October 5th, I embarked on the troop ship Valencia, for the Philippines and lost sight of American soil as the sun sank down into the roaring billows of the mighty Pacific. Most of the boys were affected with sea sickness at the beginning of the voyage. The sea was very rough, and the ship rocked and rolled in such a manner that we wished to be on dry land. An accident happened to the ship's engine three days out from Frisco, a wind sprang up carrying us many miles out of our course, and was for several hours a cause of much uneasiness; but at last we were on the way and at noon, October 8th, sighted Molokai, one of the Hawaiian Islands, where those afflicted with leprosy are taken to live out their miserable existence. Early on the following morning we dropped anchor in Honolulu harbor and all were soon ashore enjoying the beauties of a Paradise on earth. The population of Honolulu is composed of people of all nations, and every one seems to be prosperous and happy.

The parks are beautiful, well kept, and contains the greatest variety of flowers I ever saw. All the dwelling houses are one story high and are surrounded by orange, lemon, banana, cocoa nut trees and palms of the most perfect kind. The native men are tall, well built, strong and active. Women wear the brightest colored cloth to be found with wreaths of flowers hung on the shoulders, and some of them are very good looking. My short stay in Honolulu was one continued round of pleasure, and it was with much regret that I went aboard ship on the 17th, to continue the trip I had begun. The rest of the voyage was made without accident.

October 31st, sighted a volcano on one of the Ladrone Islands, which rises 3,470 feet out of the water and presents a grand spectacle, with fire and smoke pouring from the crater in great volume. November 5th, we reached the east coast of Luzon, changed the course north, and the following day entered the China sea, continued down the beach and cast anchor in Manila Bay at two o'clock on the morning of Nov. 7th, after a voyage of thirty-three days. We were soon disembarked and all were happy to be out of the cramped position we had been in for over a month. I was, soon after arriving issued a gun and ammunition and sent to my Company which was stationed at Pasig City, consequently I know very little about the city of Manila. Manila is evidently Oriental in appearance and unlike any city I ever saw. Since American occupation many improvements have been made and the place is now in excellent sanitary condition. My company has been doing some very active campaigning, as well as garrison duty on the south firing line since the first of the year. I have been on many hard marches over mountains, through rice fields and swamps, being in six engagements, which were of small consequence, lasting from five to thirty minutes. The insurgents are too cowardly to engage in open fight, so they have repaired to the ambush method which is troublesome in the extreme to our force.

The native Philippine is in person and dwelling, cleanly. They have the distinct Malay feature, the prominent cheek-bones, large, lively eyes, flat nose, and are rather low of stature, very rarely bearded, and are usually copper colored. The men are lazy, and mind the children while the wife makes a living for the family. The women are industrious, and as a rule, ugly as sin. Their hair is the only feature about them that can lay claim to beauty, and this, black as night, falls in flowing masses down their back, almost reaching the ground. They all smoke cigarettes and chew the beetle nut, the latter making the lips and teeth a deep red, adding much to their ugliness. Children learn to smoke before they are three years old. The clothing of the natives in the mountain district is very scarce. Women wear a single cloth wrapped about the waist, while the children seldom wear any clothes at all before they are twelve years old. The huts are built of bamboo and palm leaves, covered with long grass, which turns the water effectively during the long rainy season which lasts from July till November.

The soil here is rich and productive. Rice, sugar cane, hemp and tobacco do well, while orange, bananas, lemons, pineapples and other tropical fruits grow in abundance. The heat here is almost unbearable.

Earthquakes and typhoons are of common occurrence and often do much damage. The whereabouts of Aguinaldo is a profound mystery to all, and the island is in a worse state of insurrection today than it was at the outbreak. Insurgents are better equipped with arms and ammunition than ever before, and those captured say their people will fight till they have attained a government of their own, no matter how great the sacrifice may be. The situation certainly is very grave and our troops are meeting with armed resistance in such a manner as indicates more dogged determination on the rebels part than has ever yet been shown.

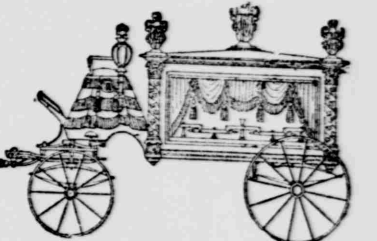

Fearing my letter is too long and will be consigned to the waste basket, I will close, wishing THE RECORD unbounded success.

WILLIAM B. STONE.
